At the end of her experience,
my daughter told me they were
the best weeks of her life.

The program nurtured many facets of my daughter's life. I have seen that she grew up as a person, enriched her self-confidence and became more independent. But, also this worthy experience allowed her to create solid bonds of friendship with people from different countries and cultures and, something important was her academic preparation for the career she will choose in the future.
